L&T Wins Orders (Mega*) for Power Transmission & Distribution Business

Mumbai, October 05, 2026: The Power Transmission & Distribution (PT&D) business vertical of L&T has secured multiple EPC orders in India and abroad, for strengthening power transmission infrastructure and enabling renewable energy evacuation.

In Saudi Arabia, PT&D has won orders in the 380 kV transmission and substation segments. The projects will support transmission capacity augmentation and renewable energy evacuation, thereby strengthening Saudi Arabia's power transmission network and facilitating integration of renewable energy into the grid.

In the United Arab Emirates, the business has won an order for constructing 132/11 kV substations and associated cabling works.

Then, in the domestic market in India, it has secured an order from a leading private sector developer for setting up a transmission system - comprising transmission lines and substations - in Visakhapatnam.

Mr Joji Sebastian, Executive Vice President & Head - PT&D, L&T, said: "These order wins demonstrate the breadth of PT&D's engineering and execution capabilities and the ability to deliver complex power infrastructure solutions across geographies. With the growing demand for grid strengthening, renewable energy integration and associated infrastructure, we are leveraging our technology, project execution expertise and global presence to deliver value for our esteemed clients".

PT&D is a leading EPC player in the field of power transmission and distribution. It offers integrated solutions and end-to-end services ranging from design, manufacture, supply, installation and commissioning of Transmission Lines, Substations, Underground Cable Networks, Distribution Networks, Power Quality Improvement projects and Infrastructure Electrification projects.
